LEAD MANAGEMENT · THE GIA MODULE

The Gia Field Guide

Where every lead becomes a relationship.

A practical guide to working leads inside Serene — written for the people who answer the call, the people who coach them, and the people who hold the vision.

What Serene is, in one breath

Serene is the operating system that runs Indulge. Gia is the part of Serene that looks after leads — every person who raises a hand and says they're interested. From the first hello to a signed deal, Gia is where that journey lives. This guide shows you how to work it well.

HOW A LEAD TRAVELS

NEW	Just arrived. Nobody has spoken to it yet — the clock is ticking.
TOUCHED	You've made your first contact. The lead is now officially in motion.
IN DISCUSSION	A real conversation is going. This is where deals are made.
WON	They said yes. The lead becomes a deal (Chapter 01).
NURTURING	A good lead, wrong timing. Parked gently, with a reminder to return.
LOST · JUNK	Closed — always with an honest reason.

WHERE LEADS COME FROM

They arrive from Meta, Google, the website, WhatsApp, referrals, YPO, events — or they're typed in by hand. However a lead shows up, Serene catches it, quietly removes duplicates, and hands it to an agent automatically — shared out fairly across the team, by domain.

Nothing falls through. Serene keeps a steady eye on every lead. If one goes quiet, it speaks up — gently at first, louder if ignored. You'll see exactly how in Chapter 02.

For Agents

Your day, one lead at a time.

THE CORE LOOP

Learn the rhythm once. The rest is easy.

Working a lead is a rhythm of seven small moves. Every lead you ever touch — thousands of them — follows the same simple beat.

01 You're notified

A new lead lands on your plate. You hear about it two ways at once — a WhatsApp message, and a notification inside Serene. No checking required.

02 Open the lead

Tap through to the lead's page. Everything known about this person is waiting for you in one place.

03 Do the work

Call them. Send a WhatsApp. Whatever moves the lead forward — go ahead and do it.

04 Press “Called”

The instant you've done something, hit the Called button. This is how you tell Serene you worked the lead — it's the heartbeat of the whole system.

05 Say what happened

A quick box opens. Choose the outcome, then leave a note — type it, or tap the mic and simply talk; Serene writes it down for you.

06 Set the next step

Add a reminder so the follow-up never slips your mind. Tomorrow, next week — you decide.

07 Save

The call counter ticks up, your note joins the timeline, your reminder is set. Done — on to the next.

That's the entire loop. Repeat it faithfully and your pipeline quietly runs itself.

What happened on the call?

When you press Called, Serene asks one thing first: what actually happened? Pick from the ready-made outcomes. Two situations cover almost every call —

OUTCOME · NO CONTACT

They didn't pick up

Outcomes like Ring No Response (RNR) or Switched Off. No problem. Just set a reminder to try again — tomorrow, the day after, whenever suits the lead. Save it, and Serene holds the thread for you.

OUTCOME · CONNECTED

You had a real conversation

Say an introductory chat that went well. Write down what was said — type it, or tap the mic and speak naturally; Serene transcribes it (it understands Hinglish). Set the next step, and save.

Every Called press adds one to the lead's call count and drops your note onto its timeline — so the full story of this person is always one glance away, for you and anyone who picks it up next.

THE LEAD PAGE

One page, the whole person

The lead's page is your cockpit. Spend a minute exploring it — it rewards you. Here's what lives there:

- Contact & personal details — name, phone, city, and notes you add
- The ad or campaign that brought them, and the form they filled in
- Their WhatsApp conversation, right there on the page
- Notes & call history — the full timeline of every touch
- Tasks & reminders set against this lead
- “Why we're perfect” — proof points matched to what they want
- The journey so far, shown stage by stage
- The deal, once the lead is won

You can edit details inline, reassign the lead, and start a WhatsApp — all without leaving the page.

★ Meet Elaya

Elaya is the assistant living inside Serene. Talk to her like a colleague — in the app, or over WhatsApp. Ask her anything about a lead and she'll look it up. Tell her to do something and she'll do it. For bigger changes — like changing a lead's status — she shows you exactly what she's about to do and waits for your yes first. She only ever acts within what you're allowed to do.

ASK

"What's the latest on the Mehra lead?"

CREATE

"Remind me to call Priya tomorrow at 11."

UPDATE

"Add a note: client wants a Dubai villa."

THE HELPDESK

Proof, exactly when you need it

Mid-call, a client asks: "Have you done this before?" Open the Helpdesk — our living library of real work we've delivered. Search by service or city, find the right story, and speak with quiet confidence. The lead's own page also surfaces the best-matched proof for you, automatically.

CLOSING THE LEAD

When they say yes

Mark the lead Won. Serene opens a short form to record the deal — what it was, and how much (₹). That's all. The lead becomes a deal and appears in Deals for the whole team to see and celebrate.

KEEP THIS CLOSE

An agent's daily rhythm

- ☐ Open every new lead the moment it's assigned — speed wins deals
- ☐ Always press Called after any contact, whether a call or a message
- ☐ Pick the right outcome and leave a clear, honest note
- ☐ Set a reminder for the next step — every single time
- ☐ Check your reminders and your "going cold" list daily
- ☐ Mark Won → record the deal; mark Junk only after three honest follow-ups
- ☐ Lean on Elaya and the Helpdesk — they were built for you

For Managers

Coach the room. Catch what slips.

YOUR TOOLKIT

Everything in your domain, and the tools to read it

You see every lead, agent and number across your domain — plus four views built to spot both talent and trouble early.

Performance

“How is each agent really doing?”

Touch rate, how fast they make first contact, conversion, calls and notes, the pipeline and call-outcome mix. Tap any number to open the exact leads behind it.

Oversight

“What is the team working on?”

A live look at every agent's tasks and what's in flight right now — so you always know where the effort is going.

Campaigns

“Are the leads any good?”

How each campaign performs, the quality of leads it brings (conversion versus junk), and the cost per lead — judge value, not just volume.

Budget

“Where is the money going?”

Total ad spend across the board, and the balance left in each ad account — so nothing quietly runs dry.

Read the why, not just the what. A weak number is only a question. The drill-downs let you open the real leads behind it and find the actual story.

Nothing goes quiet on our watch

Serene watches every lead and escalates the moment one is being ignored. A brand-new lead that nobody has touched climbs a ladder — and the fix is always the same: touch new leads fast.

~15 min

The agent is nudged. A new lead is sitting untouched — first reminder lands.

~30 min

The manager is alerted. Still no first contact — now it's on your radar.

~45 min

The founder is informed. A lead this neglected shouldn't reach here — but if it does, leadership knows.

GOING COLD

Leads losing warmth

Any lead you've started working — Touched or In Discussion — with no activity for 5 days surfaces on a “going cold” list, so it gets a fresh push before it dies.

JUNK DISCIPLINE

We close honestly

A lead is only marked Junk after at least three genuine follow-ups (for shop) — and always with a reason. We don't give up early, and we don't fake the record.

All of this lives on one screen — the Escalations page — your single answer to “what needs me right now?”

KEEP THIS CLOSE

A manager's weekly rhythm

- ☐ Start each day on Escalations — clear breaches and the going-cold list first
- ☐ Review every agent's touch rate and first-contact speed each week
- ☐ Use the drill-downs — open the actual leads behind a weak number
- ☐ Keep campaign quality honest — watch the junk rate, not only volume
- ☐ Check ad-account balances before they run dry

For Founders

The whole picture — and where it's going.

THE VIEW FROM THE TOP

Everything agents and managers do rolls up to you — in plain numbers, across every domain.

Domains at a glance

The health of every domain side by side — leads, conversion, deals closed — plus a deals-versus-target meter you set and edit yourself, month by month.

The whole roster

Every agent across every domain, fully drillable — right down to the individual leads, calls and deals behind each name.

Deals & revenue

Every closed deal and the revenue behind it — by domain, by agent, over any window you choose.

Honest by design

Records are append-only and the history is clean. What you read is what truly happened — never a tidied-up version.

WHERE THIS IS HEADING

Serene isn't finished — it's the foundation.

Everything in this guide — the clean records, the honest history, an assistant that can actually act — points toward one thing: Elaya as a true work layer hovering over the whole business. One day soon, you'll simply ask, and it will be done. The discipline in these pages is exactly what makes that future possible.
